the 1990s, the number of people with a diagnosis of schizophrenia has increased in the United Kingdom (Meltzer 1996). The prevalence of schizophrenia in the United Kingdom is estimated to be 1.2% (Meltzer 1996).

There is a growing awareness of the need to improve the lives of people with schizophrenia. The United Kingdom has a number of national strategies for mental health care, including the 1998 Mental Health Act (MHA) and the 1999 Mental Health Review Board (MHRB) (MHA 1998, MHRB 1999). THE INVOLVED GENERATION begins with

discovery of SELF

A "selfie" crisis—realizing that the world is not known only by oneself. His entire world is in life as he lives. By the time he graduates, he is a "selfie" in the world.

A series of social media "selfies" are shown in the world as he lives.
Realized in the world as he lives.

Of these four billion he becomes aware of some more than others. He experiences the frustration of a fight with a best friend, the responsibility of looking after a baby brother, the agony of not making the team, the need to say "thank you." It's tough—the art of getting along—but he learns to give a little, take a little.

THE INVOLVED GENERATION

Creativity, youthful energy finds
outlet in ACTIVITIES

The nervousness before your first Prom, the honor of being nominated for Homecoming queen and the stage fright felt seconds before the curtain rises characterizes activities. Breaking away from the routine of a school day, students become involved in developing a sense of loyalty to their school.

Relaxing before showtime are Carolyn McComish, Linda Ballah, Leslie Hopp and Barb Baran.

'Fractured Follies '70 Style'

Confused, Mona Govert wonders why her mother told her different fairy tales than the Fairy Odd Father.

"I'm with you," exclaims Fairy Odd Father Bob Mahns to Mike Thiel as David.

At police headquarters, Sergeant Tuesday, played by Jim Emery, receives a call.

carries audience through Land of Odd

"Fairy tales can come true" as they did for the Class of '70 while presenting the Fourth Annual Junior Follies. Choosing the name "Fractured Follies '70 Style," the class, for the first time, worked together as a whole.

David and Debbie, played by Mike Thiel and Mona Govert, ventured into the Land of Odd in a dream sequence. There they met their Fairy Odd Father, Bob Mahns, who told them how the fairy tales really happened.

Cinderelski, Big Red Riding Cape, Malace in Waunderland, White Rain and the Seven Drips and Fairyland Detective were the transformed stories presented in the 1½ hour production.

After paying all bills for scenery, makeup, rented costumes and backdrops, the Class of '70 was left with a $500 profit.

Charlie J. O'Rabbit, played by Dave Stevenson, arrives in time saving Clara Gatin from decapitation by Sherry Grimm.

Fall evening creates setting for 'Harvest Moon'

Pausing between dances, Mona Govert and Jeff Hess make post-dance plans as couples dance to the music of the Strangers.

"Where's my other shoe?" "Help me zip up my formal!" "Oh no, he's here already!" While girls prepared for the annual GAA turnabout, these cries were often heard as 8 p.m. drew near.

The romantic mood of a fall evening was materialized when GAA members spent Friday night and Saturday morning decorating the gym with pumpkins, cornstalks and garlands to emanate the theme of "Harvest Moon." An illuminated fountain provided the background for pictures.

Under soft red lights and quiet music, couples danced to the music of the Strangers.

As the formal occasion came to a close, the Red Lantern Inn and Wellman's became for many, the last stop of the long-awaited night.

Reflections shine as couples dance under a crepe paper canopy.

Lacking significance in itself, a nosagay becomes a treasured item for the girl who receives it.

Conscious of proper manners during the formal night, Dave Walters assists his date, Darice Detzler, with her cape.

"Even you can make better coffee!" consoles Cathy Jurevis as Mrs. Olsoninski. Janet Price is the poor woman losing her husband because she can't make good coffee.

Television satirism forms theme for Follies '69'

Playing their rendition of "Eight Miles High" are a few of the boisterous children of the old lady that lives in the shoe depicted by Ken Stivers and Greg Mack.

Practicing until midnight, sneaking out to Dairy Queen between scenes and making last minute alterations on costumes was the Junior Class in their production of Follies '69.

Giving up Saturday mornings and working school nights to transform old flats into various scenery was part of the work juniors faced. Set construction, make-up and script committees were formed. Two hours before the curtain rose, the cast nervously applied appropriate make-up and stepped into their array of costumes. It took 3 weeks and 15 imaginative minds before coming up with the final 2½ hour show.

From the Molydwyd Game to a documentary type news report, juniors emphasized its overall theme of the satirism of television programs and commercials. Dance routines and numerous songs added to the variety of the presentation.

After the applause ended, sets were taken apart and make-up washed off, the once-filled auditorium was left deserted while juniors attended a cast party.

"Bull feathers," exclaims Dave Stawitck as he gives his opinion on the censorship rules that television stations enforce. Dave is portraying comedian Pat Paulsen.

The joys of flying high are expressed by Dottie Hyman, Janet Laudeman, Amy Thompson and Rhonda Green as they sing "Up, up and away."

Hippy-dippy weatherman Kim Davis has added problems as a cream pie is heaved in his face.

Deciding whether or not Winthrop should be in the band is one of the problems Mrs. Paroo, played by Joan Gehring, faces as she talks to John Gilmore, as Harold Hill.

Standing ovation highlights 'Music Man'

"You got trouble my friend right here in River City." Warning River Citizens of moral corruption a pool table could bring was con-man Harold Hill, played by John Gilmore. Sandy Nelson portrayed the prim librarian, Marian Paroo, who aided Harold in organizing a community boy's band.

A cast of 125 Concert Choir members, students and elementary school children made up the third annual spring musical.

Choreography played an important part as professional dancer, Pete Szamaski helped 16 boys and girls learn intricate dance steps.

Members of the cast were filled with surprise and joy as the Friday and Saturday night audiences totaling over 2,000 gave them a standing ovation.

River City Boy's band, clad in new uniforms that don't fit, awkwardly play their instruments out of tune proving Harold Hill's "think system" does work.

Producing a harmonious cord on the word "ice cream," Dale Krooswyk, Jim Harding, Greg Mack and Dave Long, once enemies, become friends for life.

Standing up in defiance against Mayor Shinn are prominent ladies of the community Joan Gehring, Donna Waldron, Gaylynn Trueblood and Joyce Johnson.

"Girls are never on time" is the thought of John Gilmore, as he impatiently awaits his date.

Even Snoopy agrees to a Panther victory with his saying "Curse the Red Devils," as he gets ready to ride in the annual bonfire parade.

The bonfire illuminates the spirited area and students circle the fire shouting "Fire up for a victory."

Parade opens

A spirited walk to the football field, a helium balloon released as chants filled the air and a lively snake dance around the crackling fire...pieced together, those minor happenings became part of the bonfire warmth.

The preceding day, seniors spent many hours gathering wood for the event. Everything from construction signs to old outhouses was included in the collections. That night the wood was diligently watched by volunteer senior boys.

After the flames of the bonfire died, the finishing touches were added by the "LEGENDS," who performed at the soc hop. Parade winners were announced by Marty Kus, Student Council president. Capturing first place was the class of '69 with their float.

festivities; bonfire illuminates sky as well as students

Proud and happy seniors eagerly pull their first place float "Strike 'Em Cuckoo" through the middle of town in the parade preceding the bonfire

After enjoying the parade and bonfire, Leslie Key dances to the music of the Legends.

Queen candidates compete for Showing Debbi Lager the PANTHER PRESS special edition is Deana Avery. Smiling radiantly after being named Homecoming queen, Debbi receives a kiss from her boyfriend Lenny Czapl.

Passing time before the parade are Nick Romano and candidate Debbie Stepanovich.

Riding in the annual bonfire parade is queen candidate Karen Nagel with her escort Dan Kasprzak.

Helping queen candidate Sharon Hall into her car is Marty Kus.

Homecoming title; Lowell Red Devils scorch Panthers

Explaining the strategy Panthers will use in the game against Lowell to players Kurt Nelson and Nick Romano is Coach Jim Bartlett.

A dream come true. One of the greatest honors attained during high school is reigning as Homecoming Queen. The road to election is a long and exciting one, beginning with the nomination of five candidates by senior Lettermen.

Anxiety and hope prevailed for the candidates upon being informed of their nominations. As the week crept by, their thoughts turned to which one would be chosen by the student body. On the final night the band played "Miss America" while the candidates slowly circled the field.

The awaited moment finally arrived. Debbi Lager's dream had been fulfilled. With tears of joy, she accepted the title of "1968 Homecoming Queen."

Despite a 26-13 loss to Lowell, spirits were not dampened as students and alumni attended the annual dance following the game.

Lending his Letterman's jacket to queen candidate Debbi Lager is Greg Mack, Debbi's escort for the evening.

"You're still my queen" could be the words of Dennis Bonie as he talks to his girlfriend Joyce Vestal.

Enjoying music are top Linda Kelly and Paul Tuttle, center, Leslie Karr and Dan Augenstein, bottom, Deb Ledger and Tom Britton Gazing intently at their own heart tag are Jon Paul Miller and Kathy Townsend. The gumdrop tree was the center of attention for many couples as they searched for their names.

Discussing the weekend activities are Dena Hamnik and Gary Sutton as they relax and enjoy the refreshments provided.

Enjoying an evening that will long be remembered are Mike Schuttraw and Karen Graefe as they take time out to spend a few quiet moments together.

Princesses, magic wands set mood for 'Fairyland Fantasy'

Taking their positions proudly as 1968 Prom King and Queen are Cindy Brasel and Marty Kus.

Upon entering into a land of make believe, couples attending the 1968 Prom, "Fairyland Fantasy" were greeted by princesses who distributed magical wands to all. For the first time, the memorable event was in the school gym as it was transformed into a wonderland filled with fictional characters and settings.

Highlighting the evening was the announcement of the new Prom King and Queen as Marty Kus and Cindy Brasel accepted the newly-acquired position with honor and joy. Buddy Pressner and his orchestra provided the music as prom-goers danced from 8-11 p.m. Vogels was the scene for Post Prom. After eating, music by the "Wilshires" inspired energetic dancing until 4 a.m.

A rainy, but fun-filled day at the beach followed. Couples returned, tired and worn out, but with thoughts in their minds of a weekend that will long be remembered.

Griffith, Highland Quill and Scroll

Numbers ranging from Simon and Garfunkel to Henry Mancini were performed by Ball State University Singers while appearing at Griffith Auditorium.

As an effort to further pleasant relations between the communities, Highland and Griffith Quill and Scroll chapters sponsored the Singers' concerts in April and November.

Upon arriving at the auditorium that afternoon, the visitors were greeted by students and treated to dinner by welcoming families before their evening performance.

Accompanying themselves with guitars, banjos and bass fiddles members displayed their versatility as they presented a 90-minute production to an audience of over 800.

With guitar in hand, Debbie Bartrum sings a song written by Peter, Paul and Mary.

Backstage, Singers, under the direction of Mr. Larry Boye, practice a few of the various numbers to be performed before the curtain rises.

Chapters sponsor Ball State University Singers

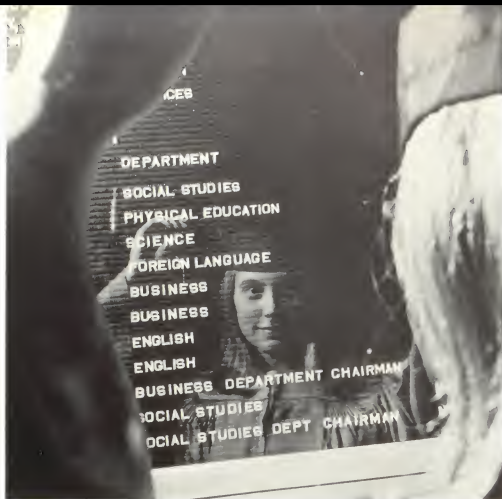

Performing before an audience of nearly 800, Ball State University Singers return for a second annual show.

"Good Ole Mountain Dew," a folk song done by the 36-member group, demonstrates the variety used in its program.

At the start of the two-hour show, the Singers, who have performed throughout the state, become acquainted with the audience by introducing themselves humorously in sets of two.

Reflecting memories from her first prom to her last term paper, Janet Patterson pauses to adjust her cap before joining fellow graduates.

Diplomas earned

Days of soc hops, fifth hour government classes and drama plays are over. The day has finally arrived when a student thinks he is finished with books, tests and homework. However, this is when the hard part begins. He now has to face the responsibilities of living in an adult world and the task of choosing a career.

For the final time the Class of '68 is united. It may be the last time to see friends with whom they went to games and parties.

After 12 years of work, young men and women receive their diploma—a document that will open doors to the future.

Graduation Day arrives and members of the Class of '68 file into the auditorium where a final ceremony and a diploma await them.

Putting style and quality into a newspaper and writing copy and planning layouts for the yearbook were part of the daily routine for students in the Ball State Journalism Workshop at Muncie.

A "most improved" trophy and a third place ribbon highlighted a four-day stay at Camps All-American in Hartford, Michigan, for varsity cheerleaders.

Attending Camps All-American were varsity cheerleaders Karen Nager, Diane Austin, Debbi Lager and Nadyne Tamminga.

THE INVOLVED GENERATION

Quest for knowledge
met in ACADEMICS

Taking shorthand with thoughts of someday being a secretary or dissecting frogs in anticipation of becoming a surgeon—realization of such dreams comes only through education. It is no longer optional but is essential to develop a talent to survive this competitive world. In academics students may find and develop their abilities.

Speeches, sonnets,

Writing and presenting speeches is difficult for some students in speech class.

Counting headlines is one of many assignments in journalism for Junior Elaine Pachnik.

stage depict scope of English departments

Books and bulletin boards are time consuming projects in English class for student, Kim Medsker and instructor, Mr. Harkin.

A Saturday lost in the jungle of books for a term paper due in a week. This was one of the situations common to English students throughout the year.

"Our Town", a play by Thornton Wilder, was analyzed by junior English classes. Tom Sawyer, The Scarlet Letter and Macbeth were assigned to various grade levels.

Juniors increased their vocabularies with the study of 20 terms a week. Themes and term papers were also required for all classes.

Grammar didn't escape unnoticed, however, with dangling participles, prepositional phrases and infinitives causing problems for many.

Writing beat stories, covering convocations and doing layouts were activities of journalism students.

Drama students not only developed their talents but studied techniques of lighting, make-up and staging.

Backstage, studies of lighting techniques are part of the requirements for students in Drama.

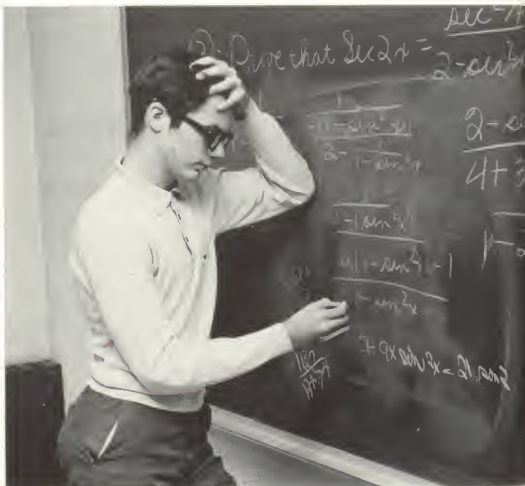

Constructing angles proves to be a problem to many geometry students.

Animals and their behavior are observed by Junior Sue Dolan in biology where experiments are conducted with white mice.

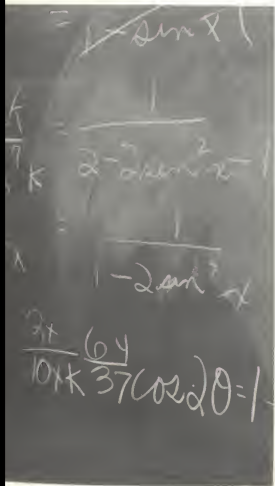

Temporarily stumped, Ray Mattozzi wonders where he made his mistake.

Attempting to prove the law of equilibrium, Senior Wayne Christenson gives a demonstration in physics class.

Seeking answers, developing logic students explore math, science

Broken test tubes . . . spilled chemicals . . . burned fingers . . . these were a few problems encountered by students while experimenting in chemistry. Goggles and aprons became daily attire for those participating in lab study. These regulations were followed to prevent any unnecessary reaction between students and experiments.

Writing the never-ending lab reports took up time of students but the results were gaining a little extra knowledge about chemistry and how to use the reasoning power that develops in science students.

In math, courses ranging from Algebra I to trigonometry and physics were taught with students cramming their brains with complex equations.

Right triangles, square roots and regular polygons were the main subjects of the class. Grading homework and taking tests took up the rest of the time.

Contemplating the structure of a molecule is Janet Knoll, chemistry student.

Replicas of ancient statues are a constant reminder of the past civilizations studied in World History classes.

Social Science students discuss elections

Not only exploring past history, but making the present and preparing for the future, history students discovered the world from the Neanderthal Man to Julian Bond.

Making maps and learning battle tactics were only part of the different activities undertaken by World and U. S. History students.

With this year's election, government and economic students had interesting and controversial topics to discuss. Government classes had a mock elections after reviewing the issues and candidates.

Studies of the mind and environmental relationships were discussed in psychology classes. Sociology students studied man and his relationships to social institutions. Discussions turned into heated arguments in contemporary affairs. Students gave opinions of today's problems and how to solve them.

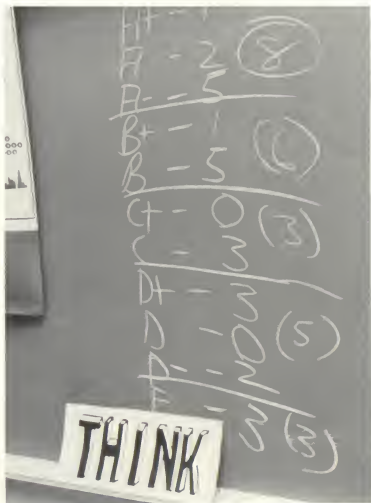

Pondering over thoughts of current problems is Junior Cathy Rutledge.

Contributing to economics class are Dale Gall, Jerry Crowe, Steve Harder and Judy Massa as they exchange views on finances.

Human behavior is studied by Mr. Dalton, social science department head, as he examines ink blot tests.

A grading scale and reminder bring thoughts to students in Mr. Cutner's economics class.

Messy hands and spotted clothing are unavoidable in pottery-making art classes. A student has the task of shaping a vase on the wheel.

Creativeness, talent is apparent in Fine Art classes

Art and music . . . developed from abstract ideas . . . precious to the creator, often meaningless to the observer. The intangible, and inability to measure a product in terms of good and bad, separates the fine arts from other courses.

Besides the usual art classes, art appreciation was offered for the second year. Students were introduced to every art form from Egyptian tombs to Jackson Pollack.

Preparing for concerts and their presentation was a constant job for band choral groups. With their profits from the production of "Music Man" Concert choir members purchased new uniforms.

Band members performed at football games, pep sessions, basketball games and concerts.

Playing the coronet becomes routine for Dave Erwin as he practices for an evening concert.

Language students delve into countries' cultures

Spanish newspapers were a change from the regular class routine. Senior Brian Boyce takes time out from reading his Spanish book.

Probing past the grammatical and linguistic aspects of foreign languages, French and Spanish students studied the literary figures of Cyrano de Bergerac and Don Quixote. Through the study of these men and their adventures, the cultures of the people were explored as well as the background of the countries.

Spanish I classes tested the audio-lingual method of teaching, trying to create foreign accents from American dialects.

Films of Roman, Gothic and Baroque architecture were shown to French classes demonstrating its use in French cathedrals.

Language labs helped students improve linguistic skills and their pronunciation. French teacher Mrs. Blum instructs Senior Bill Conway in the correct usage of the lab.

New tennis courts expand facilities for P.E. classes

New facilities did not affect old locker room habits. The daily battle for towels and the rush to the showers remained as the most energetic part of gym class.

With the addition of three tennis courts, physical education classes had a more extensive unit in the year's activities.

Volleyball, softball and gymnastics made up the remainder of the girl's program, while football, basketball and weightlifting occupied the boys.

Aching muscles and joints were frequent pains acquired by the phys. ed students, but with proper conditioning the pains lessened and skills grew.

From September to November the boys in physical education are out doors for class. Doing their required calisthenics the sophomore boys' class begins with push-ups.

The uneven parallel bars proved to be a challenge to the girls in physical education. Flying through the air, Junior Gail Lindsey finishes her routine with a dismount.

Boys, girls discuss family problems in class

Long hours of sewing stitches sometimes leads to long hours of taking them out. This was the predicament of Sophomore Carletta Schwartz after trying on her not-too-snug slacks.

Accuracy in sewing is as important as in any other field. Tracing darts is one necessity in good dressmaking.

Learning to shop and care for a family is one aspect of life that a soon-to-become-adults must face. These and other problems of today were discussed in preparation for adult living classes.

Along with discussions, the classes learned to prepare cakes, muffins and breads. They were also taught proper conduct and etiquette. Staging make-believe dates was one method used for demonstrating good and bad manners.

Constructing clothes for children as well as for themselves, students in class were busy snipping, pinning and pressing.

Not only benefiting from new techniques, pupils found sewing to be a worthwhile and an inexpensive hobby.

In adult living class, Senior Tim Redar finds breaking an egg isn't as easy as it looks.

Speed, accuracy stressed in business courses

The clicking of typewriters and the sound of pens scratching shorthand symbols could be heard in typing and shorthand classes. Learning to strike the correct keys and transcribing and translating symbols made the classes difficult but worthwhile.

Students planning a career in business had many classes from which to choose. Beginning with personal typing and going to advanced business law, all phases of office work were covered.

Messy carbon paper and reams of adding machine tape presented problems for students at first.

But through much practice students became more adept at handling such minor problems.

Even with an injured finger, typing on an electric typewriter was a fast and efficient way to get the work done and assignments in.

Shorthand is made easier for students and teachers by using records which dictate to individual students. Senior Amelia Toledo finds this method simple and timesaving.

Although good typing habits lead to fewer mistakes, Senior Elaine Heltsley finds an error in her assignment.

Filing techniques are part of secretarial practice class for Senior Norma Hollingsworth.

Addition problems are made easier through the use of machines in business classes. Junior Jerry Govert takes time to correct errors.

Industrial Arts classes turn

Accuracy is essential to good drafting techniques. Discussing some drawings are Junior Jim Messmer and Mr. Felke.

Safety rules are observed in metal shop classes. Training in the use of a cutting torch is Senior Steve Harder.

co-educational

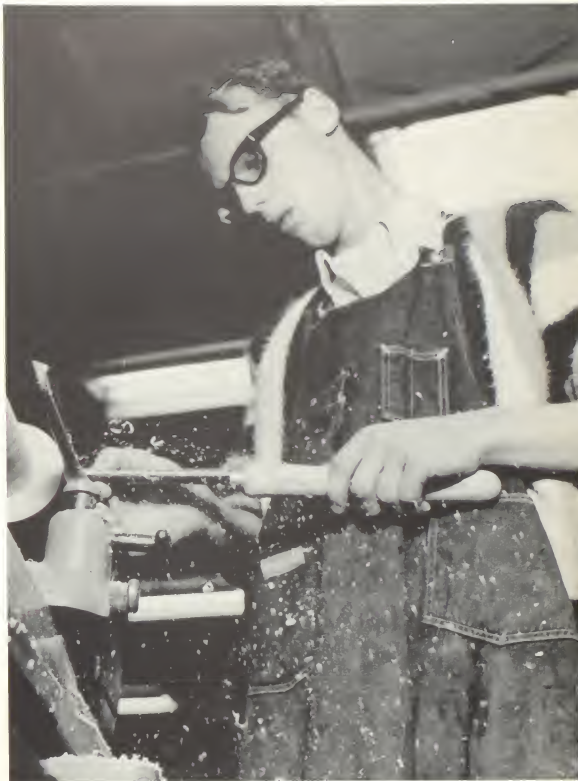

Preparing for a future in industry, students enrolled in machine shop, wood shop, auto mechanics and drafting.

A Grandfather clock was one of the main projects in woodshop. Tables, cabinets and bookshelves were also constructed and later displayed in the high school lobby.

Auto mechanics classes repaired and overhauled cars brought in by students. Dropped transmissions, broken axles and slipping clutches were a few problems encountered. Lathes and drill presses were machinery on which they operated.

Pursuing careers in interior decorating and commercial art, girls were enrolled in drafting and wood shop for the first time.

In metal shop boys built a motorized scooter for office assistants passing absentee lists and delivering passes.

Wood Shop students have many projects which are required in order to pass the class. Junior Ricky Klemoff learns how to shape wood with a wood lathe.

Shop classes are co-educational this year. Junior Linda Gustafson showed that wood shop class could be beneficial for girls as well as boys.

Participation in organizations does not only mean paying dues, attending meetings and getting your picture in the yearbook. It means more—sharing the responsibility of presenting a play, practicing for a choral concert, meeting deadlines and making spirit signs for the team. Through these clubs students also learn to get along with others.

Senior Executive Council assisted the '69 graduates with the problems they encountered during their last year. Marry Kus is filling out an order blank for names and announcement cards.

Senior Executive Council is a tool assisting the senior class in solving problems the graduates had to face during last year at Griffith High School.

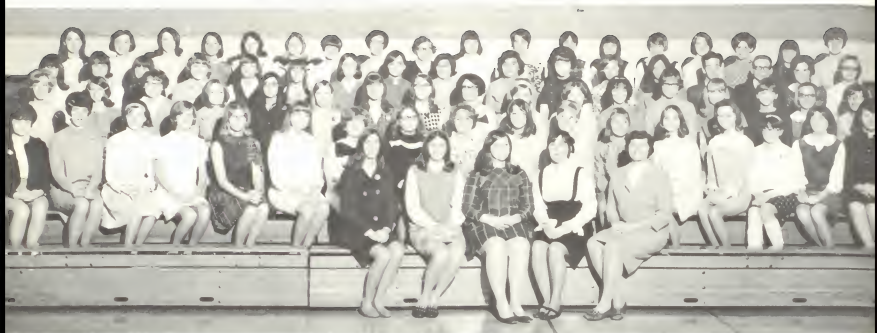

As a newly established organization, the council's first task was to gather theme ideas for the senior homecoming float. It also selected four color choices for robes worn at graduation, which the class later voted on.

Unifying the class, the club was composed of homeroom representatives. Students meeting certain requirements were able to run as candidates at-large. This made a council totaling 25 members.

Honor Society gives banquet for students with 3.0 averages

A list of students with a 3.0 average grade is made by Harold Selander as he selects students eligible to attend the first Honor Society banquet at Scherwood Club.

"The Future Lies not in the Hands of Fate, But in Ours" was the theme of the first Honor Society banquet honoring students with a 3.0 average and above.

Stimulating scholarship, leadership, service and character of students throughout the nation, the club recognized and identified potential leaders for school and country.

Active in school functions, Honor Society participated in the Student Council Mardi Gras as they featured turtle races.

In recognition of the outstanding students in Griffith High School the club sponsored the annual Honors Day Program.

New gold skirts and sweaters trimmed in black were selected by Varsity cheerleaders during basketball season. The custom-made uniforms were first worn at the Morton game.

Returning from camps and clinics, cheerleaders taught booster block new cheers, chants and hand motions.

Every Thursday night Booster Club members practiced cheers and blocks formations. Making posters, hoops and decorating goal posts spread more spirit and enthusiasm throughout the school.

A white carnation and a dozen roses were presented to Tim Redar and Lorie Selander as the first Snow King and Queen at the Dance sponsored by Booster Club.

Hours of hard work are put into 'Boost 'Em To Victory' winning theme for the Booster Club car at the annual Homecoming festivities.

Arousing the crowds with pep and versatility are varsity cheerleaders Diane Austin, Karen Nagel, Mona Govert, Debbi Lager, captain; and Nadyne Tamminga.

A whistle command and a downbeat from a drum begin half time performances during the football season as majorettes performed original routines to the music of the Griffith High School Band.

Lettermen promote leadership, sportsmanship

To raise money for senior letter sweaters and gold blazers
Lettermen Jim Messmer sells a program to a fan.

A gold "G" on a black background . . . class numerals and chevrons to the left . . . a Panther to the right — the pride of a Lettermen's jacket. But its significance holds far beyond the football or basketball stitched into the letter. It entails representing Griffith High School. Wherever worn it is recognized immediately as a symbol of athletic achievement.

Nominating queen candidates and heading Homecoming festivities were extra curricula of the organization.

Members sold programs at Varsity football and basketball games to raise money for the purchase of senior lettermen sweaters and gold blazers for the basketball players.

During gymnastics practice, Carol Jones executes the splits on the newly acquired balance beam. It was purchased by the junior, senior high GAA's and senior high Booster Club.

Fun, competition and physical fitness were encouraged to Girls Athletic Association members through basketball, bowling, volleyball and other sport games.

Highlighting the years events, GAA sponsored the annual semi-formal dance, "Harvest Moon," the GAA-Booster Club awards banquet and participated in state and district swimming and gymnastics meets.

Pins, numerals, chevrons, and letters were given to members according to number of points earned. Sweatshirts decorated with the GAA emblem, were selected to distinguish each class level.

Membership was increased threefold in 10 interscholastic sport divisions which topped the club's history.

PANTHER PRESS staff

Composing a story, fitting a headline and drawing up a page layout were several assignments the PANTHER PRESS met every two weeks.

An opportunity to express student opinion was provided by "Letters to the Editor", a special column in the PANTHER PRESS, which was one means of uniting school, community and publications.

Besides the usual four-page paper, the newspaper issued special editions during Christmas, graduation, Homecoming and sectional events.

Attending Chicago Tribune Seminar, Northern Indiana Journalism Seminar and Ball State University summer workshop were the mediums of deriving ideas and experience for the student journalists.

Editing stories and writing heads are Nick Romano, sports editor; assistant Rich Rastovski and Susy Reis, page three editor; and assistant Margie Osborn.

Attending Ball State Summer Institute gave journalists needed experience in the creation of the REFLECTOR.

Saturday afternoons were spent going from store to store selling advertisements which proved worthwhile as the staff surpassed its goal of $3,000.

Quill and Scroll sponsors banquet, Ball State Singers

A satirical comedy sketch over political views is enjoyed by the crowd as University Singers perform at Griffith auditorium. The group was sponsored by Quill and Scroll.

Ranking in the upper third of the class, being a junior or senior and having a major position on any of the publications—ARMAGEDDON, PANTHER PRESS, REFLECTOR and News Bureau—are qualifications for membership in Quill and Scroll; an organization honoring excellent work in the field of journalism.

Ball State University Singers returned to Griffith for the second consecutive year. Sponsored by the combined chapters of Highland-Griffith Quill and Scrolls, the group became an annual affair in the club's activities.

Tears of joy and excitement were experienced by many students at the Quill and Scroll banquet at Teible's in the spring. Witnessing the presentation of new positions were 120 people, largest attendance ever.

News Bureau, ARMAGEDDON inform school, community

"How to Slay a Dragon or Daddy Will Do" and "50 Mile Biography" were two entries submitted by students which placed first in the winter '68 ARMAGEDDON.

The art and literary magazine, composed of poems, short stories and essays, was issued bi-annually this year for the first time. This gave students a double opportunity to express youth's feelings, ideas and opinions.

Writing in HAMMOND TIMES, JOURNAL, GRIFFITH SHOPPER and other area newspapers, Griffith High School News Bureau informed the community in school happenings and activities.

As News Bureau and ARMAGEDDON concluded their second year in publications, students gained additional knowledge in journalism departments.

THE INVOLVED GENERATION

What distinguishes an athlete from other students? It is hours of practice in perfecting a swing or finding a split-second opening in the line. It is the agony of pulled muscles and torn tendons. The frustrations of defeat and the discipline of training disappear when the athlete receives that intangible reward—pride of accomplishment.

Record of 4-5 climaxes 1968 football season

As the game nears the finish, junior guard and letterman Kurt Nelson takes a short breather on the sidelines.

Coach Jim Barlett's first year at Griffith was a climatic one with the Panthers capturing four of their last five games to finish 4-5. Griffith's momentum carried the team over Highland to place second in the conference with a 3-2 conference standing.

Crown Point marked the Panther's turning point. The hard-fought contest remained scoreless until the second half when fullback Kevin Vana broke loose for the winning touchdown. Homecoming was fatal for the Panthers, however, as Lowell triumphed 28-13.

Ten players received major letters, with the focal point of Panther power being on the backfield. Randy Massena averaged 7.2 yards per carry and was named the Most Improved Back. Greg Mack sported nine touchdowns and earned a spot on the all-suburban team with quarterback Marty Kus.

Nick Romano captained the defensive maneuvers and Most Valuable Defensive Lineman Roy Price made 47 tackles. Blocking from Jerry Bratcher and Dan Kasprzak supported the backfield, as did Dennis Haniford, all-suburban tackle.

Defensive lineman Roy Price chalks up yardage after stealing the ball from Red Devil foes.

Hoping for a Panther victory, Jackie Toczak and Rhonda Green hold a spirit hoop which later saw Griffith stomp Crown Point.

Quick weaving gives Most Valuable Player Greg Mack extra yards rushing as he cuts between two Highland opponents in the 26-6 rout over the Trojans.

Information from Corey Vana helps Bob Kane take down important game statistics.

A break away run catching the defense off guard sends halfback Randy Massena on an open field for a touchdown against Highland.

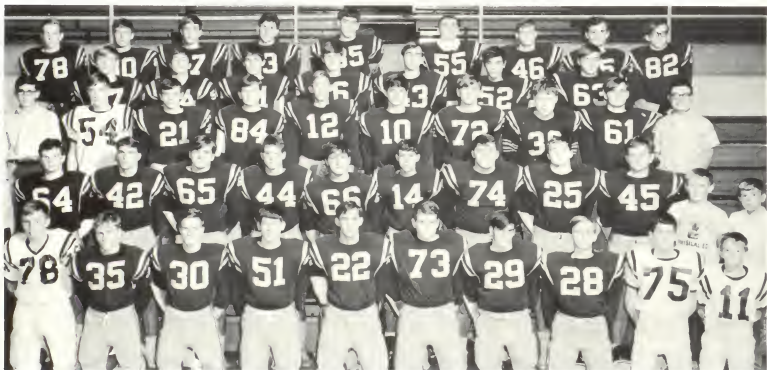

Even with bitter cold and damp weather forcing Griffith players to don raincoats, they never lose the victory spirit as they intently watch the tension-packed contest.

An orange gives Most Valuable Defensive Back Nick Romano energy to complete the second frame after a rough, scoreless first half.

season at 4-17

Griffith basketball hopes skidded downhill as the squad finished a hard-pressed year with a 4-17 record. Coach "Red" Mack's caers, although slumping in the Holiday Tourney, managed to salvage a redeeming victory over arch-rival Highland.

In his second year on the varsity lineup senior Tim Redar led the team, snaring 137 rebounds and scoring 313 total points.

In the Panther's stunning victory over East Gary, Redar commanded the floor with a 33 point game sum which was the team high for the year.

A strong senior turnout of Greg Mack, Mark Kussmaul, Dave Erwin, and Rich Rastovski backed up the roundballers. Sophomores Robin Green and Corky Kegebein were elevated to the varsity to aid the failing Panther cause.

Leading the junior segment of the team were Larry Roznowski and Dan Colby. At the Crown Point Sectionals despite the squad's depth, Griffith was eliminated from competition in a 74-43 bout with the Bulldogs.

Approaching the side of the pool, sophomore Dave Wilson takes a breath of air before making his turn during the breaststroke.

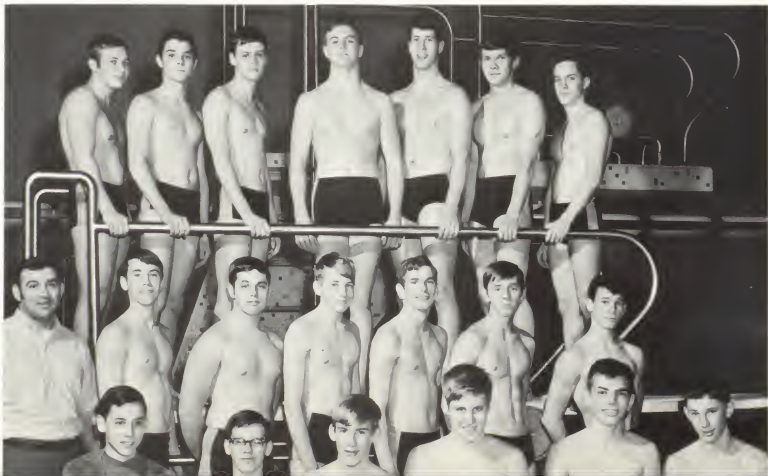

Daily practices of 2,000 to 3,000 yards enabled the Griffith swim team to reap the rewards of an 8-4 season. Besides the successful season, third place in the Sectionals fell to Coach Dan Leslie's squad.

Bishop Noll and Munster proved to be deadly to the Panther year, stifling Griffith in regular season action. Each also topped tankman in Sectional placement.

Captain Dale Patterson led in points with 103 while participating in 200-yard freestyle and in 400-yard relay as a state contestant. Dave Wilson, Jeff Lowe and Greg Malick made up the rest of the relay. Swimming 100-yard breaststroke for Griffith was Tom Bakken, while Doug Price took part in diving exhibition.

Panther grapplers clinch second place in conference

Three years of wrestling experience enables varsity wrestler Tom Mathews to edge his opponents shoulders closer to the mat.

Sweating off excess pounds, learning new holds and conditioning for tiring matches filled practices, which primed wrestlers for their 13-1 season.

In his second year Coach Nick Costello took over coaching duties for the grapplers, who took second in the conference. The decisive loss to Portage moved the Indians ahead of Griffith in conference standing.

Senior Tom Mathews went undefeated in regular season matches. Other seniors adding depth to the team were Gerald Farmer, Dick Kane, Jim Olson, Roy Price and Dike Randolph.

Juniors Mike Pigg and Jim Messmer filled two starting weight classes. Jack Mathews also won all regular matches while leading the squad in pins. The team received an addition of four sophomores: Carl Mathews, Bob Kane, Gordon Hanson and Rocky Gibson.

In his second year Coach Charles Ricks guided the 1968 golf team to an 8-3 Calumet Conference record and to a 10-6 overall seasonal standing. The strong point was depth as the team was mainly composed of five seniors.

Seniors were Tim McVey, Dennis Bonie, Reagan Splady, Greg Govert and Tom Britton. Underclass backing came from junior Tim Little and sophomores Ron Blythe and Dave Deedrick.

Highlighting the year was McVey's performance with a nine hole average of 39.7 strokes. He also was the Griffith Team Medalist as well as Sectional Medalist. In the sectionals the squad placed sixth.

Panther turfmen faced stiff competition during mid-season where they lost six out of their nine regular season matches.

Surging to victories in the opening three matches of the season, Griffith cross country runners fell downhill as they lost their next nine. The team was dominated by underclassmen with Lance Riffe as captain and the only senior.

Griffith harriers reached the high point of the season by placing third in the East Gary Invitational. Members endured several miles of running each day to keep in shape for the long distance runs.

"The future looks bright for cross country at Griffith, with the return of the underclassmen for the next few years," stated Coach Don Ray.

Freshmen Steve Bjelich and sophomore Jack Shroeder were Coach Ray's leading runners. Kim Medsker was voted the squad's most improved runner for the 1968 season.

Sure hands and agility boosts baseball team to 10-6

Taking advantage of a short hit, Tim Redar scurries to home-plate while players await the throw.

Spirits drooped as the 1968 baseball team lost four out of its first five games. Coach Jim Teutemacher experienced his first year leading the team which made a complete reverse at Merrillville to capture nine of the next twelve games, finishing 5-6 in the conference and 10-8 as a total.

Most Valuable Players, Bob Makely and Craig Adelsperger led in batting with .289 averages.

Makely also played an errorless season, while Adelsperger batted in fifteen runs and boosted the staff with a 4-2 pitching record.

Baseball produced fourteen lettermen at the end of the year.

Speed was a big factor in the season along with teamwork. Tim Redar stole nine bases while Mike Schuttrow made two sacrifices.

Freshman Mark Redar received an opening role at second base and also earned a major letter.

At Block Stadium batting leader Craig Adelsperger lashes a line drive hit to center field, advancing the runners.

A high and wide throw draws Bob Makely, first baseman, from the base.

Warm-up grounders before the game enable Al Hein to sharpen his fielding and to ready himself mentally for action to follow.

Panther cindermen chalk up winning year at 5-2

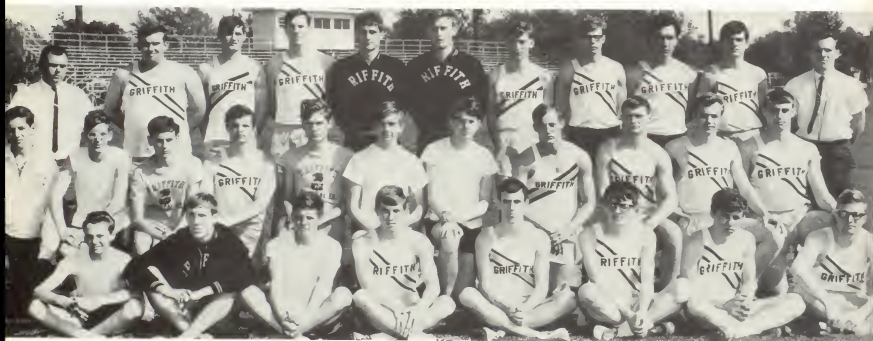

With great forward momentum and arms outstretched senior Russ Gehring tries to obtain extra distance in the broad jump.

Straining lungs, thuds of the shotput and well-practiced jumps and falls went into making the 1968 Panther track squad. Greg Mack, Jim Emery, Kevin Vana and Al Jennings shattered the school mark of 3:31.4 minutes on the mile relay with a 3:28.7 time.

Coach Budd Ballou's cindermen finished ninth in the Calumet Conference while producing ten lettermen at the season's end. The team reached its peak at the middle of the year as it took three straight meets, and the junior varsity grabbed a victory.

Playing his last year at Griffith, Jennings qualified for regional competition, set a record of 50.9 seconds in the 440 yard event and won the award for the Best Mental Attitude. Leadership was also pronounced in the field events with Russ Gehring in the broad jump and Terry Alley doing the shotput work. Coach Ballou was impressed with sophomore Mike McClure who earned a major letter and was chosen Best Freshman.

Tennis reached its highest point at Griffith since it began four years ago as a varsity sport. The 7-4 season marked the first winning year in its history.

Bob Metro, Dave Deedrick, Harold Selander, Dean Christenson and Dick Kane were Coach Fultz's five returning lettermen. Junior Mike Thiel played a momentous first year as his record of 12-4 was the best on the squad. Thiel also went into the semifinals in conference and in sectional play.

First-year players proved to be especially strong with senior Jeff Lowe, and sophomores Jerry Metro, Jim Caron and Greg Underwood making their debut.

Finishing runner-up in the Sectional Tourney, the squad defeated all East Chicago and Hammond schools. Each member advanced past his first match, but all except four were cut from tourney competition in the second.

Intramurals' second year shows rising turnout

With a jump ball called juniors Jerry Kroll and Richard Will leap high into the air to tip the ball to a teammate.

Under new leadership boys intramurals moved into its sophomore year. Thursday night sessions enabled participants to learn fundamentals and to operate as a team.

Students also received knowledge of the rules, as they refereed their own games. Each game consisted of ten-minute nonstop quarters with brief separating rest periods. Coach Loren Cutner, in his first year, supervised the competition.

Coach Cutner's choices of captains were Rick Fleck, Gary Smith, Ed Bane, Al MacDonald, Larry Farkas and Rick Mueller for the six squads. The six teams competing for top position were Big Mac, Beavers, Airplane, Follies, Sac's and Blue Raiders.

Referee Tom Patterson calls a foul and stops the game for free throw shots.

As one of the fifteen girls making up the GAA swimming team, Judy Massa dives from the side of the pool during practice.

A difficult flip in mid-air or a dive from the side of the pool were two of the events making up the Girls' Athletic Association roster. The activity was under the direction of Miss Ruth Rathbun.

Over 150 girls participated in GAA intramural competition. Sports included swimming, bowling, tennis, softball, basketball, volleyball, gymnastics, badminton, table tennis and field hockey.

Margie Chomo led basketball scoring, averaging 9.75 points per game, while sharing the Most Valuable Player spot with Jackie Toczek.

The basketball squad went 1-4, as the single win was over Merrillville.

Griffith gymnasts won their first meet ever in a duel which included Merrillville and Portage.

Besides balance beam routines of forward and backward rolls, junior gymnast Mona Govert performs the splits during daily practice maneuvers on the team's beam.

Also involved in gymnastics, the volleyball team's Most Valuable Player, Carol Jones, completes a somersault.

After a return by her opponent Betty Lehmann slams the volley ball back.

Performing modern dancing to music, Theresa Baker executes an arabesque.

THE INVOLVED GENERATION

Steel, glass

Commodity—defined by Webster as an "an element of weath, An economic good." Griffith High School's commodity is students. With teachers, administrators, and classrooms as a catalyst, the quietly accepting sophomore emerges as a constantly searching senior. It is through education that students become society's element of wealth.

Working together with students and faculty, Principal Ben McKay finds time to pause during his demanding schedule.

Administration

In trying to meet the demands of an ever-growing community with an increasing school enrollment, the parent-teacher council worked closely with the administration for the betterment of the school and the student body.

Rules and regulations followed by the students at Griffith were made by the superintendent, principal and school board.

Keeping in step with the changing pace of pupils was a major problem faced by administrators. But with the application of modern ideas, coping with the changes was made easier.

New to the Griffith school system Mr. Larry Pinkerton, assistant principal, worked along with students and was mostly in charge of attaining discipline and seeing that students observe the dress code.

Planning the Griffith Public Schools' policies are school board members Milford P. Christenson, Harvey A. Fountain and Raymond L. Underwood.

co-ordinates school system

Problems of an ever-growing school system are encountered by Superintendent William R. Cheever.

Financial matters are handled by treasurer of the school system Mrs. Leona M. Kane.

New assistant principal, Mr. Larry Pinkerton, adjusts to the students and surroundings with eagerness and anticipation.

Assistant Superintendent Mr. Kenneth Manifold, shares much of the responsibility with Mr. Cheever.

Aiding students through their three years of high school by advising and scheduling are guidance counselors Mr. Sam Cox, Miss Kyra McKay and Mr. James Garretson.

Counselors, directors assist administration

Intra and intermural sports are scheduled by Mr. Harold Mack, director of athletics.

To keep students and faculty well is one of School Nurse Mary Earp's many duties.

Giving passes and checking daily attendance is one of many duties of Mr. Charles J. O'Rourke, director of pupil personnel.

in carrying out school policies

With 32 new students in the high school and 16 new faculty members on the training staff, the guidance office, director of pupil personnel, athletic director and nursing staff were kept busy throughout the year.

Talking with students about educational, social and emotional problems took up much time of the counselors. They also made schedule changes, filled college and employment applications and made out a major schedule for both classes and students.

The office of the athletic director did much to present the student body with extra activities. He scheduled athletic games and co-ordinated intramural program.

Director of pupil personnel kept track of student absences and tardies. He was in charge of truancy and in enforcing the dress code.

Being at the school only two days a week was a problem for the school nurse. However, she managed to help keep the students well.

Head librarian, Miss Dorothy Moehlman aids teachers in getting books for assigned reading.

Teachers depend on Mr. Arthur Fiscus, director of audio-visual department for mimeographed material.

Teachers become involved in unions,

Miss Mary Jo Bryant places a poster boosting the football team. Besides teaching advanced typing, she sponsors Booster Club and cheerleaders. She received a Bachelors degree from Manchester College where she majored in business education.

Mr. Gerald Spejewski applies makeup on a drama student. Receiving a Bachelors degree in education, he teaches drama, speech and Junior English.

Mr. Budd Batlou views a Highand-Griffith track meet. Besides teaching U.S. history and government, he is assistant football coach and track coach. He received a Masters and Bachelors degree at Indiana State University.

Mr. James Felke looks proudly at his arrow head collection from different Indian cultures. Teaching drafting along with co-sponsoring the Junior class keeps his day busy. He received a Bachelors degree from Ball State University.

Mr. John Rhodes, power mechanics and vocational auto instructor, examines the work of a student. He received a Bachelors degree from Indiana State.

run for candidacy, work for legislation

Mrs. Margaret Clark works at the familiar task of preparing supper. As Junior English teacher and sponsor of Future Teachers Association, she devotes much of her time to students. She received a Bachelors degree from Purdue.

Mr. James Pictor relaxes for a moment, before resuming his daily activities. He received two Bachelor degrees, one from St. Meinrad College and one from St. Joseph College. Devoting most of his time to his Senior students he teaches English.

Mr. Loren Cutner, while sponsoring intramural basketball reviews the schedule of games. He received a Bachelors degree in social science and Masters degree in school administration from Indiana University.

Mrs. Lillian Dibblee demonstrates the use of a compass during a plane geometry class. She recieved a Bachelors degree from Kansas State.

Finding a teacher in his classroom a half hour before the morning bell or an hour after the final bell was not unusual at GHS.

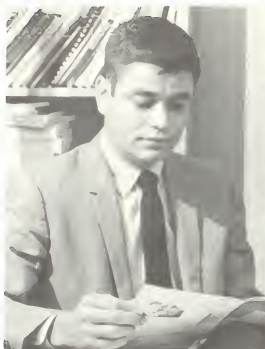

Along with their regular duties, many teachers took on added responsibilities as sponsors of clubs and activities. With 17 clubs functioning in different areas, the faculty became involved with the students and school beyond their requirements of teaching.

Even with the busy schedule created for teachers, they often took time out for faculty recreation. Teams were formed for bowling, competing on a weekly basis. Weather was a dominant force in planning outdoor sports, though, as rain-soaked golfers soon discovered.

Mr. Dick Koval takes time out to polish one of his many guns used on hunting trips. He received his Bachelors degree from Ball State and has been teaching bookkeeping and merchandising and sales for three years.

Staff grows with community

Mr. Thomas Knarr, searching for material for class use, reads the school-provided pamphlets. Receiving a Bachelors degree from Indiana State, he teaches government and economics.

Miss Ruth Drzewicki feeds mice for biology experiment. She received a Bachelors degree and teaches Biology.

Mrs. Janet Oyler grades a child's garment made in clothing class. Completing her first year at Griffith, she taught Clothing I, II, III and IV. She received a Bachelors degree at Kansas State and Masters degree at Indiana State.

Mrs. Paula McClung studies a magazine sales chart for awards. While sponsoring the Junior class, she teaches sophomore, Junior and Senior English. She received her Bachelors degree from Valparaiso University.

Mr. Dan Leslie uses his creative abilities to build a grandfather clock. Coaching the swim team and teaching woodshop fill his day. He received a Bachelors and Masters degrees from Purdue.

Mr. George Klinger shows students ancient sculptures from Rome. He received his Bachelors degree and teaches sophomores world history.

faculty increases by 16 to meet demands

Mr. Daniel McNeil, a teachers' bowling league member, packs his equipment.

Teaching Algebra I, geometry and trigonometry, he also coaches freshman football and 7th and 8th grade track. From Indiana State he received a Bachelors degree.

Mrs. Betty Holmgren relaxes a moment to read a political pamphlet. Teaching Business English, Shorthand II and secretarial practice fulfill her teaching day. She received a Bachelors degree from Western College and her Masters from Indiana University.

Mrs. Dorothy Blum enjoys a quiet evening at home knitting a sweater. She received a Masters and Bachelors degree from Indiana University in French and English. Her day includes French I, II, III, IV and Sophomore English classes.

Mr. James Claxton leafs through the filing cabinets, looking for a typing exam. Teaching typing and sponsoring the Sophomore class and Future Teachers Association keep his day active. He received a Bachelors degree from South Southeastern State College and a Masters from Arizona State.

Mr. Charles Ricks, brush in hand, prepares to paint in oils. Being golf coach and teaching art classes keep his school day busy. He received a Bachelors degree from Ball State.

Teachers cope with everyday problems,

A Bachelors and Masters Degree are not the only requirements in making a successful teacher. He must be able to maintain discipline, communicate with his students and gain their respect. Along with these traits, the educator must enjoy his work and be able to give a part of himself.

Griffith High teachers fulfill this requirement. With 60 percent of the faculty involved in either coaching teams or sponsoring clubs, students come in closer contact with them and develop a better student-teacher relationship.

A Saturday spent drilling the basketball team on free throws and layouts . . . weeks spent practicing with student-actors for a class play . . . an afternoon spent with college-bound students taking the SAT . . . all mark a truly devoted teacher.

Mr. George Vitaniemi instructs students in industrial arts in both the junior and senior highs. He obtained his Bachelors Degree at Ball State University in industrial education. On weekends he enjoys fishing and hunting.

Mr. Jim Bartlett, new Varsity Football coach, spent many hours piloting the team through the season. At Ball State University he received a Bachelors Degree in physical education and in history. Besides teaching boy's physical education, he is assistant wrestling coach.

Mr. Howard Besch earned his Bachelors Degree in mathematics and chemistry from Illinois Institute of Technology. Besides teaching chemistry and sponsoring the Senior Class, he enjoys taking slides of his travels and collecting ancient relics.

keep up with constantly changing trends

Mrs. Judith Kummer, head of vocal music, sharpens her speed skates in anticipation of winter fun. Graduating from Illinois University she received her Bachelors and Masters Degrees in music education.

Mr. Steve Stanczak received his Bachelors Degree at Northern Illinois University. He majored in physical education and in social studies and did his graduate work at the University of Chicago and Purdue University. He teaches U.S. History and enjoys fishing and camping in his spare time.

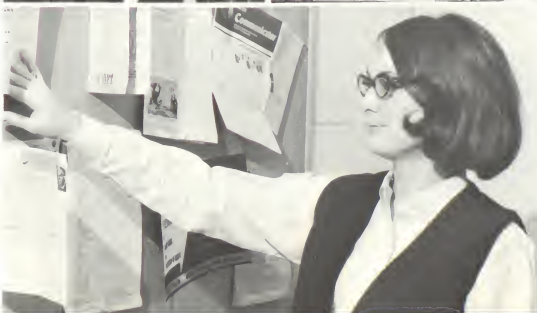

Mr. James Mason is an avid sports fan. Assistant track coach and teacher of algebra and physics, he earned his Bachelors Degree at Ball State University.

Miss Susan Eaton makes good use of the professional library available for teachers. After student teaching at Griffith last year, she earned her Bachelors Degree at Indiana University and teaches biology classes.

Mrs. Linda Fuhman began her first year at Griffith teaching English and Spanish. She obtained her Bachelors of arts Degree at Indiana State University. She enjoys all out-door sports.

Understanding adolescent problems, teachers

Mr. Ray Weaver checks the school schedule for coming events. As student activities director, he sponsors Student Council, directs Junior Follies and design sets for plays and musicals. Receiving a Bachelors and Masters degree from Indiana State in Foreign Language, he teaches Spanish I, II, III and IV.

Mrs. Florence B. Ogle indicates the individual place setting for the dinner table as she instructs preparation for adult living students. She received a Bachelors and Masters degree from Indiana State.

Mr. George McClure tinkers with a motor in machine shop. With Industrial Arts as his major, he teaches vocational machine shop. He received a Bachelors and Masters degree from Indiana State.

Miss Pat Clark begins her day by contacting printers and publishers. As head of publications, she sponsors REFLECTOR, Quill and Scroll, PANTHER PRESS, News Bureau and ARMEGEDDON. Receiving a Bachelors degree from Ball State, she teaches Journalism I, II, III and Sophomore and Junior English.

Mr. David Hochstetler, while teaching world history and advanced physical education, finds time to sponsor the Sophomore Class. He received a Bachelors degree in Business and a Masters in Education.

body, faculty

Clean facilities, hot lunches and comfortable rides to and from school were often taken for granted by the student body.

The health and safety of students was a tedious but important task. Working behind the scenes, custodians and cooks arrived early in the morning and stayed until late at night.

Cooks prepared about 1,000 meals a day for the junior and senior high schools.

Shoveling snow, driving the booster club buses and cleaning up after students and faculty kept the school in good condition.

Organization of the main office was left up to the secretaries. Sorting mail, filing papers and answering phones were only part of the day's work in the principal's office.

As hot lunches for 1200 students are being prepared, Mrs. Hoot and Mrs. Cronk begin their daily tasks.

"Seniors at last!"—a long-awaited accomplishment after three years of work, study and fun. What will follow these years of knowledge and experience? Whatever the destination, graduation opens the door to the beginning of a new life and closes that of an old one.

First place was awarded to the Class of '69 for their float "Strike 'Em Cuckoo" giving them the honor for the second consecutive year. Upperclass talent went into the production of the eighteenth century comedy "Tom Jones" as they presented the annual senior play.

For the first time, a Senior Executive Council was formed to voice the opinion of the homeroom in which each member was elected. It better represented and united the class.

Leadership is displayed by Senior Class officers Cindy Brasel, secretary; Joyce Schoonover, vice president; Debbie McVey, treasurer and Dave Stawitcke, president.

Juniors place second in Homecoming parade,

Coordinating the numerous activities of the Junior Class are Margie Chomo, treasurer; Jackie Bernath, vice-president; Dan Colby, president; Carolyn McComish, secretary.

An in-between stage... no longer relying on the stuttered excuses of sophomores, yet lacking the self-confidence of the more experienced seniors—juniors are suspended between childish dreams and sophisticated ideals.

Desiring to be part of high school life, the class of '70 accepted the challenge of many activities. Totalling over $4,000, magazines sales were the most successful of any other junior class. Their float "You Butterfly, When We Breeze By," captured second place in the Homecoming parade.

Childhood fairytales were strangely distorted as "Fractured Follies '70 Style" was created and presented. With Prom finished and summer ahead, juniors' thoughts turned to college applications and senior responsibilities.

Sophomores order class rings

Guiding sophomores through their first year in senior high are Kevin Rivich, president; Janice Dolson, vice-president; Debbie Burdette, secretary; and Ted Philips, treasurer.

Meekly sitting in the upper left corner of the gym, sophomores gave a class yell that barely squeaked out among the boisterous senior and junior cries.

Finding yourself in the wrong class after three days and being unable to locate your locker are familiar frustrations felt by a sophomore.

As the year progressed, however, sophomores felt more a part of GHS. Their first class project was the float "Voyage to Victory." Various clubs and organizations gained members as the Class of '71 joined in the many extra-curricular activities.

Though the newness of the senior high is worn off by the end of the sophomore year, junior and senior class experiences are yet to come.

THE INVOLVED GENERATION

Merchants find youthful consumers
through ADVERTISING

Advertising exposes new products to the ever-growing high school population. Youthful demand exists for a place to go on Saturday night, for thousands of green tissues to decorate a float, for footballs for the team, or for film for graduation.

Throughout the year these demands were satisfied by Region shops and services.

AN OPPORTUNITY TO SERVE

An opportunity to serve awaits industrious young men and women at Northern Indiana Public Service Company. As one of the top gas and electric distribution utilities in the United States, NIPSCO is constantly looking for new processes and methods of efficient operation. These include atomic power generation, extra high voltage transmission, underground electric distribution, computerized system planning, underground storage of natural gas, community analyses and electronic data processing.

Ready to grow with a growing company?

IN AN ATMOSPHERE OF GROWTH

NIPSCO is one of the highest-paying utilities in the State of Indiana. Its attractive employee benefit package—tuition refund plan, vacations, holidays, life insurance, comprehensive medical insurance, pensions, etc.—provides an atmosphere for individual growth. Fifteen leading colleges and universities are strategically located throughout its service area with others available in the greater Chicago area. Drop in. We'll be glad to talk jobs with you.

Acknowledgements

Through the efforts of staff members and with the help of Mr. Ed Hackleman, area sales representative, Mr. Ralph Van Dyke, company art adviser, and Mr. Wayne Wolfe, director of publications, 750 copies of the 1969 REFLECTOR were printed by Delmar Printing Company of North Carolina.

We would like to thank Mr. Jack Bundy of S. K. Smith Company of Chicago for his aid in producing the cover. The cover is a direct line print applied in dark brown on to gold cloth.

Our appreciation is also extended to

Mr. Bob Hanson, vice president of Wallinger Studios in Chicago, and Mr. Scott Nazawa and the other photographers for senior, group and candid pictures they have taken during the year.

A basic 3-column page plan was used throughout the book except on division pages and on opening pages where no-column layout was followed. Direct line pictures printed over tint blocks were used for special effect on divisions and opening pages. Sienna bronze end sheets and 80-pound Warrens enamel paper were used inside the book. For body copy 10 pt. Universe Medium was used. Indents, senior directory and index were 8 pt. Universe Medium. On opening and divisions, body copy was 11 pt. Universe Italic and heads were 24 pt. Futura Demibold.

We are also grateful to Principal Ben McKay, Superintendent William R. Cheever, Assistant Principal Larry Pinkerton, custodians, teachers and parents for their patience, support and understanding. Their cooperation was much needed and appreciated in the making of the 1969 REFLECTOR.

THE INVOLVED GENERATION

The last book is stored, the last locker inspected as a school year ends. For some it is temporary.

They will return to hamburgers at Miner's and Mark Antony's speeches. For seniors it is a new involvement—with Vietnam, steel mills and fraternities. Whatever their role, the INVOLVED GENERATION will play an active part.

*Grade cards,
empty lockers,
diplomas signal finish*

The 1969 REFLECTOR is finished even the smallest details. We never thought we would make it, but now it is done.

Memories of forty-eight page deadlines fade and the book is now a reality. The 1969 REFLECTOR will serve as a symbol of our dreams realized.

Yearbook staff unifies to create 1969 REFLECTOR

Second color throughout the book . . .
eight more pages . . . $3,000 worth of advertising . . . a new look on the cover—these features mark the 1969 REFLECTOR from other years.

Around Griffith, faces of yearbook staffers became a familiar sight to play directors, coaches, teachers and students alike.

Whether it was an ordinary school day, Christmas vacation or Saturday morning, Reflectories could be found giving directions and explaining picture ideas to one of our photographers, whom we got to know so well.

The success of this yearbook I credit to my dedicated staff for their cooperation and hard work. To Candy and Sue give a big thanks for without them I would have been lost.
For the much-needed confidence and understanding that our advisor,
Miss Pat Clark, gave to me, I give my unlimited appreciation.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1995. The public sector has also become an important employer of women, with 5.5 million women employed in the public sector in 1995, compared with 4.5 million in 1980.

There are a number of reasons why the public sector has become an important employer of women. One reason is that the public sector has become an important provider of social services, such as health care, education, and social housing. These services are essential for the well-being of the population, and the public sector is the only provider of these services in the UK.

Another reason why the public sector has become an important employer of women is that it has become an important provider of social security. The public sector provides social security benefits, such as unemployment benefits, sickness benefits, and pension benefits. These benefits are essential for the well-being of the population, and the public sector is the only provider of these benefits in the UK.

A third reason why the public sector has become an important employer of women is that it has become an important provider of social services for women. The public sector provides social services, such as day care, after-school care, and residential care for the elderly. These services are essential for the well-being of women, and the public sector is the only provider of these services in the UK.

the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased by 50% (Mental Health Foundation 1999).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of people with mental health problems. The Department of Health (1999) has set out a vision for mental health care in the UK, which is based on the principles of recovery, self-help, and community care. The vision is to ensure that people with mental health problems are able to live full and meaningful lives, and that they are able to contribute to society.

One of the key challenges in achieving this vision is to ensure that people with mental health problems are able to access the services they need. This is particularly true for people who are homeless, as they often face significant barriers to accessing mental health services. The Department of Health (1999) has identified homelessness as one of the key areas where mental health services need to be improved.

One of the ways in which mental health services can be improved for people who are homeless is by providing them with a safe and stable home. This is because homelessness is often a major factor in the development of mental health problems, and it can make it difficult for people to access mental health services. The Department of Health (1999) has identified housing as one of the key areas where mental health services need to be improved.

Another way in which mental health services can be improved for people who are homeless is by providing them with support and advice. This is because people who are homeless often face significant challenges, and they may need help to access mental health services. The Department of Health (1999) has identified support and advice as one of the key areas where mental health services need to be improved.

One of the ways in which support and advice can be provided to people who are homeless is by using self-help materials. Self-help materials can be used to help people to understand their mental health problem, and to learn how to manage it. The Department of Health (1999) has identified self-help materials as one of the key areas where mental health services need to be improved.

Another way in which self-help materials can be used to improve mental health services for people who are homeless is by providing them with information about mental health services. This is because people who are homeless often do not know where to go for help, and they may need help to access mental health services. The Department of Health (1999) has identified information about mental health services as one of the key areas where mental health services need to be improved.

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are undernourished has increased from 600 million to 800 million. The number of people who are malnourished has increased from 1.2 billion to 1.5 billion. The number of people who are obese has increased from 100 million to 300 million.

There are a number of reasons for this. One of the main reasons is that the world population has increased from 5 billion to 6 billion. This has led to a greater demand for food. Another reason is that the world's diet has changed. In the 1950s, the average person in the world ate 2,500 calories a day. In the 1990s, the average person ate 3,000 calories a day. This has led to an increase in obesity. A third reason is that the world's diet has become more processed. This has led to an increase in the consumption of fats and sugars, which are the main causes of obesity.

There are a number of ways to address these problems. One way is to increase the production of food. This can be done by increasing the use of fertilizers and pesticides. Another way is to change the world's diet. This can be done by encouraging people to eat more fruits and vegetables and less meat. A third way is to change the world's diet to be more processed. This can be done by encouraging people to eat more processed foods and less fresh foods.
